Chief Information Security Officers (CISOs) are juggling multiple priorities. An escalation of cyber security threat vectors. Impending regulatory and compliance requirements. A shifting global political landscape.
HOW CAN CISOS KEEP UP TO REMAIN EFFECTIVE?

They need a trusted network of peers and expert advisors.

The CELA community of information security executives offers a unique approach for peer-to-peer networking among elite enterprise-level CISOs. CELA is the only membership-based community to facilitate trusted, personal connections to the world’s top information security leaders.

This exclusive network connects prestigious CISOs from the world’s largest global companies for in-depth, confidential discussions and shared thought leadership. From improving risk assessment to optimizing your personal brand as a valued member of the C-suite, participation in CELA offers unrivaled access to insights being shared by the Presidential Transition Team, industry best practices, and strategies to expertly overcome your most pressing information security challenges.

Exposure to the world’s top search executives, access to proprietary HMG Strategy research, multimedia publicity, and speaking opportunities will propel your personal brand and career to new heights.

- Recognize how best to lead and navigate information security initiatives from the world’s top global security experts
- Gain access to the Washington, DC Inner Circle on emerging public/private sector policy developments
- Obtain best practices for implementing a world-class governance model
- Discover how to effectively communicate the strategic value of IT security and incident response to the C-suite and Board of Directors
- Strengthen your professional network by developing strong relationships with global IT security leaders
- Extend personal, strategic branding for your career ascent
KEY BENEFITS OF THE CELA PROGRAM

The CELA community of information security executives provides a level of experience you cannot obtain elsewhere. Through the broad-based HMG network, you will benefit from customized thought leadership on:

- Local, national and global enterprise security issues
- Striking a balance between security and innovation in the digital age
- Leading, growing, and retaining human capital in an era of scarce resources
- Strengthening negotiating leverage with partners
- Connecting with top global search firm executives

Discussion topics are customized and centered around CELA members’ most difficult challenges and provides them actionable intelligence that mitigates enterprise security risk:

- Communicating effectively to the C-suite and to the Board of Directors
- Striking a balance between security, costs, and business functionality
- Creating offensive and defensive security playbooks
- Participate in establishing minimum standards for cyber security
- Designing a CISO dashboard for success
- Determining the real costs (financial, branding) of data breaches
- Winning the war for talent
- Measuring the value of information security investments
Now is your chance to join this elite group to acquire the insights and connections to drive your success and career ascent.

HMG Strategy is the world’s foremost provider of pioneering networking events and thought leadership to support the 360-degree needs of the CIO/CISO/IT leader. Our regional CIO and CISO Executive Leadership series, newsletters, authored books and the HMG Resource Center deliver proprietary research on leadership, innovation, transformation, and career ascent. The HMG Strategy global network of more than 300,000 senior IT executives, industry experts and world-class thought leaders is the strongest, most trusted network of executives. Additionally, our partnerships with the world’s leading search firms provide vital insights into the evolving role of the CIO.

ISRAEL MARTINEZ,
Chairman,
Global Manufacturing ISAO & CEO,
Axon Global

Public and private sector organizations must take a proactive stance towards cyber threats to keep ahead of the bad guys.